Our Services

Attention to the needs and abilities of children is the hallmark of the Children's Advocacy Center model to ensure that children are not further victimized by the systems intended to protect them. From the initial allegation of abuse, the Multidisciplinary Team (MDT) approach allows the child an opportunity to talk with a single interviewer in a safe, neutral setting, thus protecting the victim from being unnecessarily interviewed by multiple people from each specific field. The team continues to work together to guide the investigation, treatment, management and possible prosecution of the case to ensure the greatest level of protection and care for the child and his/her family.

Forensic Interviews

Specially trained Forensic Interviewers work with the MDT to ensure victims are not interviewed unnecessarily and allow them to share their story in a safe, legally sound and neutral setting.

Advocacy Services

Advocacy focuses on the needs of the youth and non-offending caregiver(s), providing needed support and information along with a compassionate, listening ear.

Medical Evaluations

Specialized medical evaluations are offered to ensure the health and safety of each victim, identify any evidence of abuse, and refer for additional care as needed.

Mental Health Sessions

Specialized, evidenced-based, trauma-focused mental health services are offered to the victim and family to help them cope with the trauma and to assist them through the healing process.

MDT Collaboration

CAC's and MDT members come together to improve the response of the investigation and intervention of child abuse.

Prevention and Education

While there is no one thing we can do to guarantee children will be safe, there are things we can do to decrease the likelihood of abuse and improve our response to it.

Why It Matters

Child abuse and other forms of trauma can have lifelong effects on children, families, and communities.

Child trauma can last a lifetime.

Many studies have shown the strong relationship between Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs), which include childhood trauma like abuse, and serious outcomes such as post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), depression, substance use, health problems, and even poverty and early death.

Trauma is both common and costly to society.

How many children are we talking about? Nearly half of all U.S. children experience at least one type of childhood trauma. That exacts a toll on children, their caregivers, and their community, and our country as a whole also pays a price. Quite literally: In addition to the physical, emotional, and social costs of child abuse, it also carries economic costs.¹

Abuse and other forms of trauma are common.

Nearly half of all U.S. children—some 34 million—have experienced at least one type of childhood trauma, while 16 million have experienced two or more types of trauma.²

Abuse carries a heavy cost.

The lifetime cost for each victim is

$210,012¹

Each year, total lifetime costs of new cases of child abuse reach approximately

$124 billion

What We Do

To understand what a Children's Advocacy Center (CAC) is, you must understand what children face without one. Without a CAC, the child may end up having to tell the worst story of his or her life over and over again, to doctors, law enforcement, lawyers, therapists, investigators, judges, and others. They may have to talk about that traumatic experience in a police station where they think they might be in trouble, or may be asked the wrong questions by a well-meaning teacher or other adult that could hurt the case against the abuser.

Without CACs

With CACs

When police or child protective services believe a child is being abused, the child is brought to the CAC—a safe, child-focused environment—by a caregiver or other “safe” adult. At the CAC, the child tells their story once to a trained interviewer who knows the right questions to ask in a way that does not re-traumatize the child. Then, a team that includes medical professionals, law enforcement, mental health, prosecution, child protective services, victim advocacy, and other professionals make decisions together about how to help the child based on the interview. CACs offer therapy and medical exams, plus courtroom preparation, victim advocacy, case management, and other services. This is called the multidisciplinary team (MDT) response and is a core part of the work of CACs.

Our Goals

Do the best job possible in finding out what happened.

Help make the process as comfortable as possible for you.

Work in cooperation with other services/programs to help your child and you.

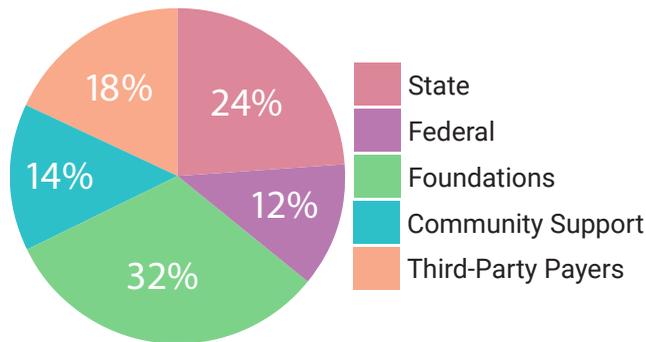

Help your family begin to heal.

How We Are Funded

2020 Revenue and Expenses

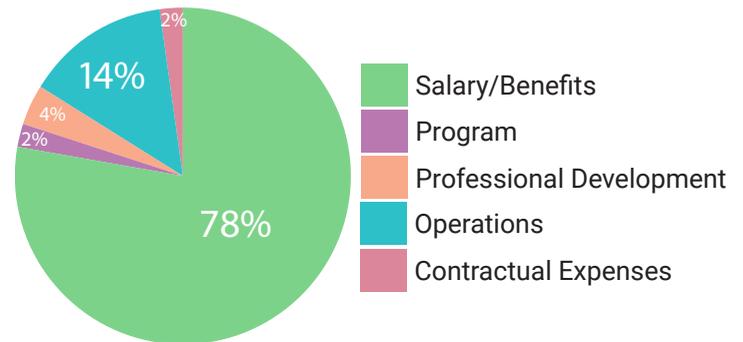

Revenue

As a non-profit organization, the NPCAC is dependent on the generosity of the communities we serve. CACs never bill families for services. We are funded through grants, foundations, community support and third-party payers.

Expenses

By far a majority of our expenses go to supporting direct services to traumatized kids and their families. We do this so we can provide a safe, family-friendly environment that promotes hope, health, and healing.

Who We Are

Northern Plains Children's Advocacy Center

The Northern Plains Children's Advocacy Center (NPCAC) provides a compassionate and effective way to bring services to children victimized by abuse. This public-private collaboration significantly reduces the trauma associated with reporting child abuse and holds offenders accountable.

The Mission of the NPCAC is to protect children by providing on-site agency collaboration utilizing a multidisciplinary team approach in prevention, investigation, assessment and referral for prosecution and treatment of child abuse.

February: Champagne and Ice Gala

Our incredibly successful Champagne and Ice Gala was a hit ... before COVID hit.

March: Tele-Forensic Interviews

A generous grant from the ND Community Foundation allowed us to safely transition to tele-forensic interviews.

July: Center Doors Reopen

We implemented safety measures to provide in-person services. Many services continued virtually.

August: New Bottineau Satellite Site

Our new Bottineau site allows us to serve Burke, Renville, Bottineau, and Rolette counties, along with the Turtle Mountain Indian Reservation.

September: Turning Point Continues

Even during COVID, our Turning Points program continued to offer group therapy to women who are using legal and illegal violence in their intimate relationships.

October: Everyday Hero Conference

More than 60 participants joined us virtually for our 1st Annual Everyday Heroes Conference aimed at training law enforcement officers, prosecutors, and other multidisciplinary team personnel.

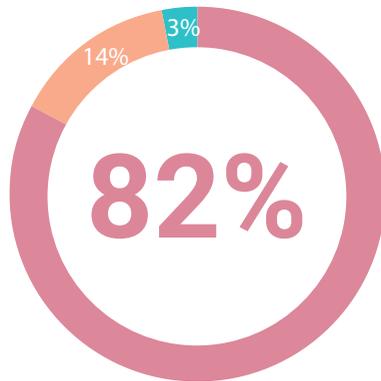

November: Waiting Room Renovated

After a generous donation from Enbridge, we completely renovated our waiting room to appeal more to children.

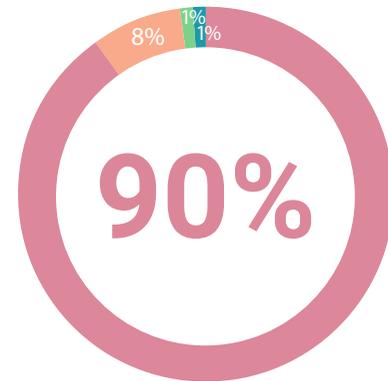

Our Impact

"I was nervous and unsure of the entire process. The staff made me feel at ease and made sure I had all the information needed for this type of situation."

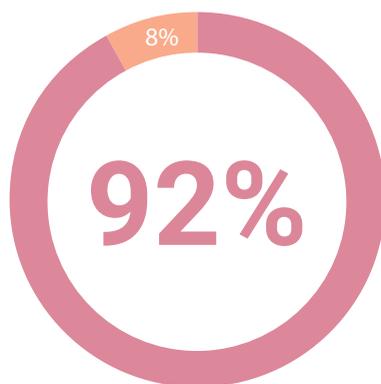

I believe my child felt safe at the center.

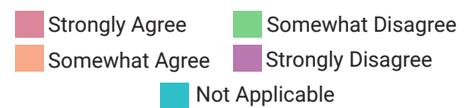

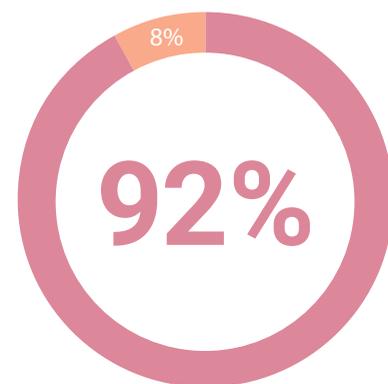

The NPCAC provided me with resources to support my child.

The CAC provides resources that build better cases.

MDT members feel clients benefit from the collaborative approach.

"Well run, beautiful facility, dedicated and competent, compassionate staff"

Who We Serve

One in every 10 children will be a victim of sexual abuse by their 18th birthday; approximately 65% will be female. Based on data from the CDC, a conservative estimate for the cost of maltreatment in North Dakota is more than $525 million in one year.

Age

Though abuse affects children of all ages, the majority of children seen at Children's Advocacy Centers in North Dakota are under 12.

Race

As North Dakota has grown over the past 10 years so has the ethnic diversity of our victims. Although 65% of our victims are Caucasian, representation of other races have increased nearly 10% in the last 10 years.

Types of Abuse

The majority of cases seen at the CACs in North Dakota involve an allegation of sexual abuse. In fact, more than one in ten of all substantiated victim abuse and neglect referrals to social service agencies nationwide are victims of sexual abuse.

The Northern Plains Children's Advocacy Center exists to change those numbers and lead the fight against the cycle of child abuse through a more coordinated and compassionate approach.

How You Can Help

The services of the Northern Plains Children's Advocacy Center (NPCAC) are made possible because of the generous support of the community. We have grown out of a community need to better the response and intervention of those most vulnerable and we need you to partner with us to make that happen.

The NPCAC is solely funded through grants, donation and third-party payers. Every penny donated helps make a difference in the lives of children.

I Support Kids

Support legislation that keeps kids safe. Children are our future and we need to make their health and safety a priority.

Volunteer

In order to provide services free to families, the NPCAC truly depends on the help of interns and volunteers. Both Interns and Volunteers contribute their unique talents, skills and knowledge to help restore hope, health and healing to children and their families.
